2 Rare, Rarest... and Even Rarer

Screaming Eagle Cabernet is famous for being the rarest wine in Napa Valley.

So what could possibly be rarer than that?

Try a 3-pack of 2019 Screaming Eagle Sauvignon Blanc in its original wood case. First bottled in 2010 and meant only for private consumption, this wine's collectability not only eclipses every Sauv Blanc on the planet—including Dagueneau, Chateau Margaux, and other First Growth whites—but rivals that of Montrachets from Burgundy giants like Ramonet, Pierre-Yves Colin-Morey, and Coche-Dury.

Whether you intend to drink this or keep it as an investment, bid strong!
