GUYS AND DOLLS

Though those words might have been sung by the rock band Chicago, it could have been about this Guys and Dolls weekend in Napa and Sonoma Valley's. This lot is the ultimate getaway for couples who are so smitten that they could spend every moment together, but so secure in their love that they don't mind a little time apart; so join Elan Fayard of Azur Wines and George Hamel, III of Hamel Family Wines as they host three couples for a beautiful wine country weekend together—and apart.

The guys will get an early start as they head to a day at a Jack Nicklaus designed course ranked among the top one hundred in the country, Mayacama Golf Club. The day will begin with breakfast with George before the entire group heads to the driving range where they will receive some last minute tips from Club Pro Teddy Antonopoulos, before playing eighteen holes followed by a well-earned debauchorous lunch in the Mayacama's wine cave where George will pouring wines from Hamel Family Wines and his own personal cellar.

The ladies will be cooling their high heels at a Luminous Retreat in Coombsville as they spend the day with Azur Wines Proprietor, and Luminous Retreats Connector & Gatherer, Elan Fayard. The day will be filled with time to dive into a healing morning taking place in a teepee, followed by a picnic lunch from a local farmer and chef with a wine tasting or two in the afternoon of small under the radar wineries. It's a time to relax, enjoy each other's company while connecting through the retreat, food, wine and friendship.

The couples will reconvene at their accommodations on the Hamel Family Estate, before heading to a dinner prepared by Massi Boldrini of Oakland's Riva Cucina, in the Hamel Family Wines Estate House Library, paired with both Azur and Hamel Family Wines.

Loving distance—it's amazing how close it can bring us, and our three couples will return home rested, rejuvenated, and ready to resume family life... and counting the days until next time.
