

THE STARTING FIVE

You can crow about your cult Cabernets, brag about your Burgundies, and even go on about your Gulfstream—just don't call yourself a baller at this table. Because when you and two other couples (six [6] people total) break bread at Continuum on Pritchard Hill, you won't just be doing it with Continuum founder and legendary Napa Valley icon Tim Mondavi, daughter Carissa Mondavi (WineaPAWlooza co-chair), and brother Dante Mondavi of Continuum and RAEN—you'll also be joined by five of the NBA's most enologically educated stars: Josh Hart and J.J. Redick of the New Orleans Pelicans, Larry Nance Jr. of the Cleveland Cavaliers, Landry Shamet of the Los Angeles Clippers, plus Baxter Holmes, the Senior National NBA writer for ESPN and a James Beard Award recipient!

Here's the scouting report on these five: None can pass—not on a fine wine anyway, which is exactly what they'll be bringing to dinner. Each hardwood star will share a pivotal "aha" wine to be served with a carefully-matched course from chef Sarah Scott. Uncorking these world-class wines from around the globe will be as satisfying as uncorking a game-winning jumper, and it'll be tough to get a slamming, jamming collection of talent like this one together again. So bid early and bid high, because who knows, maybe some of the baller will rub off on you.
