Normally, one has to bend, squat, prune, sweat, strain, and lift, in order to gain entry into the Beckstoffer George III Heritage Vineyard in Rutherford. But every once in a while, a lucky few are allowed in without being asked to lug grapes. That's you. You will slumber for two peaceful nights in a sleek and plush Airstream trailer, cloistered in the George III Vineyard. You will enjoy a private KATA tasting and lunch in the vineyard with David Beckstoffer (if it is plausible/if he is available), as well as dinner beneath the stars, prepared by TORC chef Sean O'Toole.

The only times you will be tempted to leave the vineyard will be for private tastings at TOR, Realm Cellars, and Vice Versa: all wineries that produce Beckstoffer wines. With a magnum from David Beckstoffer's personal collection in hand, you will return home, quite possibly the only people in Napa Valley who emerge from a few days in the vineyard more rested and relaxed than when they went in.

This will take place on a mutually agreeable date. Hopefully it falls during harvest, but that is notoriously tough to predict because its exact dates are declared by meteorological fiat.
